

From THURSDAY September 18th, to

THURSDAY September 25th, 1755.

PHILADELPHIA, July 31.

The Speech of the Honourable ROBERT HUNTER MORRIS, Esq; Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Pennsylvania, and Counties of New-Castle, Kent, and Suffex, upon Delaware.

To the General Assembly of the said Province, met at Philadelphia, July 24, 1755.

My Speaker, and Gentlemen of the Assembly,

It is with the greatest concern I now lay before you the melancholly account of the defeat of the forces under the immediate command of general Braddock, which you will find is attended with very shocking circumstances; the general killed, and most of the officers that were in the action, are either killed or wounded, the bulk of the men cut off, his whole train of artillery taken, and colonel Dunbar is now retreating with the remains of the army to fort Cumberland. This unfortunate and unexpected change in our affairs will deeply affect every one of his majesty's colonies, but none of them in so sensible a manner as this province, which having no Militia, is thereby left exposed to the cruel incursions of the French, and their barbarous Indians, who delight in shedding human blood, and who make no distinction as to age or sex as to those that are armed against them, or such as they can surprize in their peaceful habitations all are alike the objects of their cruelty laughing the tender infant and frightened mother with equal joy and fierceness. To such enemies, spurred on by the native cruelty of their tempers, encouraged by their late success, and having now no army to fear, are the inhabitants of this province exposed, and by this must we now expect to be over-run, if we do not immediately prepare for our own defence. Nor ought we to content ourselves with this, but resolve to drive and confine the French to their own just limits.

This, gentlemen, however gloomy the present appearance of things may be, is certainly in the power of the British colonies to do, and this is not only their truest and most lasting interest, but their highest duty. The Eastern governments have already gone a great way towards removing that faithless but active people from their borders. Let us follow the noble example they have set us, shew ourselves worthy the name of Englishmen, and by a vigorous exertion of our strength, dislodge the enemy from our frontiers, and secure the future peace and safety of the province; for we may assure ourselves, that while they possess the countries they have unjustly seized, we never shall truly enjoy either.

Allow me therefore, gentlemen, to recommend to your most serious consideration the present state and condition of your country, the danger to which the lives and properties of all those you have undertaken to represent stands exposed, at this critical and melancholly conjuncture; and to desire that you would not, by an ill-timed parsimony, by reviving any matters that have been in dispute, or from any other motive, suffer the people to remain any longer undefended, or the blood of the innocent to be shed by the cruel hands of savages. There are men enough in this province to protect it against any force the French can bring; and numbers of them are willing and desirous to defend their country upon the present occasion, but they have neither arms, ammunition nor discipline, without which it will be impossible to repel an active enemy, whose trade is war.—I therefore hope that you will, without delay, grant such supplies as may enable me not only to secure the people of this province, but by reinforcing and assisting the king's troops, enable them to remove the French from their present encroachments.

If something very effectual be not done at this time for the safety and security of the province, the enemy who know how to make the best use of a victory, will strengthen themselves in such a manner, that it will be next to impossible for us to remove them.

Upon the earliest intelligence of the defeat of our forces, knowing the immediate danger to which we were exposed, I summoned you together, that you might have a timely opportunity of exerting yourselves in the service of your country, and of setting a proper example to the neighbouring colonies, who will, doubtless, if we do our duty, employ their utmost strength upon the present occasion, and heartily join in any measures that may be concerted for our common safety.

July 24, 1755. Robert Hunter Morris.

To the Honourable ROBERT HUNTER MORRIS, Esq; Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Pennsylvania, &c.

The Address of the Representatives of the Freemen of the said Province, in General Assembly met, at Philadelphia, the 30th Day of the Seventh Month, called July, 1755.

May it please the Governor,

WE have deliberately and seriously considered the governor's speech of the 24th instant, together with the letters and papers he has been pleased to lay before us, by which we find "that the defeat of the forces under the immediate command of general Braddock, and the retreat of col. Dunbar to fort Cumberland, are attended with very shocking circumstances." Nevertheless, it gives us real satisfaction, under this unfortunate and unexpected change, in our affairs, that this province has seasonably and cheerfully complied with the demands of the King's forces, and that no part of this unhappy defeat can be laid to our charge.

We think it our duty on this occasion, to be neither parsimonious, nor tenacious of such matters as have been in dispute, and are now under the consideration of our superiors; but, referring to ourselves all our just rights, we have resolved to grant fifty thousand pounds for the king's use, by a tax on all the real and personal estates within this province, in which we shall proceed with all possible dispatch; hoping to meet in the governor the same good dispositions he so earnestly recommends to us.

The governor's call of our house at this time is agreeable to us, as it impowers us to exert ourselves yet farther in the service of our country; and the like opportunity given to the lower counties, under the governor's administration, we doubt not, will be acceptable to them, and add their contribution to the common cause, before the time to which they stand adjourned.

Signed by order of the House,
July 30, 1755. Isaac Norris, Speaker.

WILLIAMSBURG, Aug. 8.

BY express this morning from Augusta county, we have the melancholly account of the murder of col. James Patton who was killed by a party of Indians, the last day of July, on the head branches of Roanoke and eight more men, women, and children. Colonel Patton was going out with ammunition, &c. for the frontier inhabitants, and stopping at a plantation on the road to refresh himself, the convoy being about 5 miles before, he was beset by 16 Indians, who killed and stripped him, and then made off with his horse, &c.

We are likewise well assured, that the Indians have killed 7 or 8 people in the county of Halifax, near Smith's mountains, and that at least 70 or 80 families have left their habitations in that county and fled for it, some to North-Carolina, and some further down into the county, and the county of Lunenburg.

Williamsburg, August 15. We are advised from

Lunenburg, That the inhabitants of that county have entered into an association for raising a company of light horse, to consist of 50 effective men, to range on the frontiers of this colony, to defend the inhabitants from the incursions and depredations of the French, and their savage Indian allies; which association his honour the governor in council has been pleased to approve of, as also to furnish them with ammunition and provisions, and has appointed Mr. Nathaniel Terry captain of the said company.

WILLIAM GIBBES continues to act as a FACTOR. (And as he makes it his only business) those that please to favour him, may depend on their orders being carefully executed. He also keeps a good deck'd boat of 100 barrels burthen.

LOST from Mr. Roper's Wharf, on Tuesday night the 17th of September, a new cypress canoe, lately split and mended, and tarred inside and out about 15 feet long and 3 feet wide: The pieces put into her head and stern are of cedar; that in her head has an eye bolt in it, and in her stern a ring bolt. Whoever delivers her to Thomas Butler, pilot, in Charles Town, shall have 40s reward.

Jonathan Remington, Taylor, GIVES Notice, that he continues to carry on his business in one of Mr. Crockett's premises on the day, where all gentlemen and others who please to favour him with their custom, may depend on having their work done in the neatest and most fashionable manner, (not inferior to any in America), and on reasonable terms.

N. B. He also cleans and repairs all kinds of wooden shoes in the best manner from dirt, grease, tar, &c.

THE Gentlemen Troopers belonging to the St. George's troop, are desired to meet on the 6th of October (being the usual troop day) completely clothed and armed, at the appointed place of parade in Dorchester.

Myself Walter, Clerk.

LONDON,

LONDON, July 3.

YESTERDAY upwards of 20,000 lb. of gun-powder, with a large quantity of lead shot, were shipped by the me Charles for America.

This morning a large quantity of ordnance stores was shipped in the river for his majesty's garrisons at Gibraltar and Port Mahon.

London, July 5. There are fifteen twenty-gun ships contracted for in private yards, 8 of which will be built in the river, and 7 in various ports. They will carry the same weight of metal as the 40-gun ships in queen Anne's time.

London, July 6. It is said advice has been received, that the French are marching 30,000 men toward Flanders; but with what design is not known.

Orders have been given to the officers of the several regiments, to keep with their men, and be always in readiness to march on any short notice.

London, July 10. It is confidently asserted that the king of Prussia is fixed in the interest of our court and that of Vienna; which his conduct will soon shew.

Orders have been given to the contractors for the twenty gun ships to finish them with the utmost expedition.

London, July 12. James Michie, Esq. is appointed one of his majesty's council for South Carolina, in the room of William Bull, Esq. deceased.

Our last advices from Hanover say, that a project is upon the carpet for uniting the trade of the electorale, in virtue of a convention that is to be made for that purpose with the king of Poland, elector of Saxony. This is looked upon as a Go many an affair of great importance, and that may be attended with considerable consequences.

London, July 15. The Gibraltar man of war, Capt. Holwell, arrived at Portsmouth last Friday night, in 18 days, with an express from admiral Boscawen, that he had taken two French men of war, the Alcide and the Ly, off Cape Nice.

Some important dispatches being arrived from Hanover, occasioned the holding a grand council yesterday by the lords of the regency.

If we may depend on our last advices from Madrid, the French minister is incessantly assiduous in his applications, the chief object of which is to engage the Spaniards to make it a common cause in America, under pretence that they suffer immensely by the contraband trade in that part of the world; and that the French are ready to concert any measures, and to co-operate with them in any manner, to put an effectual and perpetual stop to practices of this sort by any nation whatsoever.

London, July 17. Notwithstanding the summer is so far advanced, it is thought there will be a campaign in Flanders.

Last night a grand committee of council was held at the subject of affairs of great importance.

We hear, that a squadron of 10 or 12 ships is ordered to sail from Portsmouth, in quest of the nine French men of war that have lately put into Lisbon.

Orders are, at the same time, to admiral Knowles, governor of Jamaica, to have every thing in readiness to withstand an attempt, which may be made by the French or Spaniards.

They write from Portsmouth, that there remained the ent and at 36 men of war, and that the impressing seamen for his majesty's service was continued.

Extract of a letter from Bordeaux, June 30.

"We learn by a vice from Martinico, that two sloops laden with ammunition and recruits, arriv'd at the Havana from Old France in the beginning of April last, on the 20th of which month they set sail for the Mississippi, being intended to reinforce our colony of Louisiana, which the pretty populous, is liable to the insults of the Indians, who [continue the writer] we have not copied such a numerous examples of [his nation] are abated by the English on the side of Carolina and Georgia."

Orders are given, that no soldier in the guards shall have a furlow for more than 15 days, nor for any further than 30 miles from London.

It is said, that the duke de Mirepoix, ambassador of France, had sent instructions sent him from his court, to accommodate all differences in an amicable manner.

London, July 19. We hear, that his majesty hath concluded new treaties with the king of Sardinia and the duke of Modena; in virtue of which those courts are to receive large subsidies. The date of that with his Sardinian majesty is prior to the violation of his territories by the troops of France.

It was yesterday reported, that the court of France had laid an embargo on all the English ships in their ports.

There is advice from Bordeaux, St. Malo, Boulogne, and other parts of France, that for these several weeks past they have been quipping a considerable number of privateers, some of which only wait for a wind to put to sea.

Yesterday 30 pieces of cannon, from 12 to 24 pounders, with a great quantity of powder and shot, were shipped from the Tower for the Bahama Islands.

All the officers and private men of the marine now in town, are ordered forthwith to their respective corps.

It is said, that the duke de Mirepoix has orders to depart this kingdom by this day 7-o'clock.

Thursday there was a great council at the Cockpit, of the lords of the regency, who sat several hours.

The night before, the earl of Granville, president of the council, came to town on Thursday from Hawes in Bedfordshire, to attend the regency.

The yachts are in readiness to sail at an hour's warning; and his majesty is very shortly expected in his British dominions.

Capt. Ryder, master of a cutter, arrived from Boulogne road last Wednesday, brings advice, that being there in company with a other cutter commanded by captain Word, an armed sloop came off and took possession of the latter, on which the former weigh'd anchor and escaped.

Hanover, July 9. On the return of an express from London, it is believed, that the reciprocal marriage between the prince of Wales and one of the princesses of Brunswick Wolfenbutel, and of the prince of Brunswick with the princess Augusta of England, will be declared. It is also believed, that the other princesses of Brunswick will be espoused by prince William of Hesse Cassel; and that immedately after these marriages are fixed, an alliance of great consequence will be made public.

Dispers, July 11. A few days ago a sloop arrived here, having on board 5 or 6 persons of distinction, who sat out immediately on their arrival for Paris. This vessel, whose master is a native of Ireland, is said to have made this port for Dunkirk, from whence it set out on the 20th of April last, since when it has made the tour of the coasts of Great Britain, having visited many of the sea ports both in England and Scotland, but principally the latter. These gentlemen are said to have made this voyage for the pleasure of taking profect on all sides of that delightful island, having staid but a short time at any particular city, except in that of Edinburgh, where they diverted themselves near a month in viewing the extraordinary and romantic situation of that city.

London, July 22. It is said, that a noble duke waited upon the French ambassador, immediately after the council of regency on Thursday last, and desired his excellency's assistance from his majesty's territories; and that his excellency has ordered in all his bills, and is out for his own court to-morrow.

It is reported, that his excellency waited on our great seaman, to whose vigor and abilities the present glory of Britain is in a considerable degree attributed, and told him, that Boscawen's proceedings deserved to be considered as acts of bravery, and the French officers would be justified by the law of nations, if they were to hang the persons guilty of them at the yard arm; to which he was answered with a smile, that they might consider of that when they had taken them.

We hear, that several 20 gun ships and sloops are ordered to be fitted out as fast as possible.

It is said, that admiral Byng sail'd on Sunday with 10 ships of the line, and 2 small men of war.

This day arrived from France M. de Coëre, secretary to the late earl of Albemarle, ambassador at Paris.

London, July 24. A ship is sailed for France to bring over the English gentlemen residing in that kingdom in any public capacity, together with their servants, and as many of their countrymen as shall offer.

The lords of the regency sat on Tuesday till near four o'clock; after their rising several messengers were dispatched abroad.

Monday night between twelve and one o'clock, the duke de Mirepoix, the French ambassador, set out from his house in King-street, St. James's, for Paris.

We hear that the messenger who brought the order reports, that war was declared in Paris last Saturday.

It is said that admiral Anson is preparing to sail with a small squadron and the yachts to Helvec Bay, to bring over his majesty.

London, July 26. Yesterday two express arrived at Sir Thomas Robinson's office from Hanover.

A convey is appointed to take care of the ships bound to the East country.

'Tis currently reported that war will be declared next week.

This morning 5000 lb. of gun-powder was shipped for Gibraltar.

Extract of a letter from Portsmouth, July 24.

"Yesterday two small French vessels appeared on the back of the isle of Wight: Sir Edward Hawke ordered a sloop to weigh and give them chase; who took one of them, which appears to be a sloop, and had about ten or twelve hands on board."

Extract of a letter from Portsmouth, dated July 25.

"Yesterday at one o'clock the fleet under the command of admiral Hawke got under sail at St. Helen's, and in the evening they were out of sight. As they had the whole tide of ebb after they had cleared the isle of Wight, and the wind has been pretty fair, we imagine they are by this time the length of Plymouth."

Hague, July 18. We have advice from Paris, that a young pretender appears there again, whom the court of France seems very assiduous to oblige, and on whom it has lately laid a very particular obligation, by presenting him with a sum of money; insomuch, that there is reason to conjecture, that the court is forming designs again, to make use of an adventurer, to alarm and give trouble to the court of Great Britain.

Paris, July 19. Orders are daily expected at Brest, for putting 8 ships of the line into commission.

It is said, there will be three camps form'd in September, one in Flanders, one in Alsace, and a third in Dauphiny.

London, July 29. We hear that the duke de Mirepoix has not only paid off all his debts, but that he gave positive directions to his maitre de hotel to charge all his domestics to pay theirs, on pain of his displeasure; and also to signify to them, that if they did not, and it should be any way known to him after his getting home, he would take care to have them exemplarily punished.

A private letter from an officer at Portsmouth gives an account, that 10 captains, 27 lieutenants, and 1000 marines are embarked on board the fleet.

This morning 4000 lb. of gun-powder, with 57 Ct. weight of lead shot, and a large quantity of iron ordnance, were shipped for Portugal, and 2000 lb. of gun powder for Carolina.

On Friday His Excellency General Lyttleton set out for Portsmouth, to embark for his government of South Carolina.

We hear, that 6 French men of war are cruising in the mouth of the Channel; but admiral Hawke is gone in quest of them.

Fifteen hundred troops were assembled last Friday at Dunkirk.

On Monday morning arrived Capt. Cunningham from Halifax in Nova Scotia, with an express for the government, in 20 days; and sat out directly for Baffin's Bay to wait on lord Halifax. He has brought an account of the taking of the French forts at Beaufort and Casperea in the Bay of Fundy.

The vessel that Capt. Cunningham came in, was chased several hours in the Channel, by two French privateers, till she came in sight of admiral Hawke.

CHARLES-TOWN, Sept. 25.

On Thursday last, the Brig. Margaret, Henry Forrest Master, bound from the Bay of Honduras for New York, and laden with Logwood, was cast away on North Edisto Bar: The Cargo, 'tis said, will be all saved, but the Vessel is big'd.

Capt. Forrest informs us, that every Thing goes on well in the Bay, since Governor Anselme has caused two Forts to be erected there, one at the Old and the other at the New River's Mouth: That no more Guarda Costa's infect it: And that there now subsists a good understanding between the English and Spaniards in those Parts.

By the last Accounts from England, there were before the end of July, near 150 of His Majesty's Ships in Commission, about 96 of them of the Line, the rest 20 Gun Ships and Snows.

Admiral Boscawen's Squadron, if join'd by all the Men of War to whom he has sent Orders for that Purpose, must at present consist of 19 Ships of the Line (exclusive of the Ly and Alcide) 7 30-Gun Ships, and 4 Snows; in all 30 Sail.

By Way of Georgia, we have an account of the Death of Col. James Stewarts, at New Providence.

Capt. Murray, who arrived here last Tuesday, from London, has on board Part of His Excellency Governor Lyttleton's Baggage; and informs us, that the Rest is on board the June, Capt. McLellan, who sail'd three Weeks before him; and that he left His Excellency embarking at Portsmouth, on board His Majesty's Ship the Blandford, Capt. Watkins, which Ship may probably bring a Declaration of War, according to our latest Advices.

Last Tuesday Evening the General Assembly of this Province adjourned to the first Tuesday in December next, after having passed an Ordinance.

A Sloop from Jamaica for this Port, is put into North Edisto, where she is taking in Part of the Cargo of the Brig. lately cast away.
